Motivational Statement (250 words)

I am a 34-year-old MD-PhD working at the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology in Salzburg, Austria. My clinical and research interests are in ovarian cancer and rare gynecologic malignancies with ongoing projects on low-grade serous ovarian cancer and vulvar malignancies.

To me, the European Society of Gynaecological Oncology is certainly the most innovative society in gynaecological cancers and I very much appreciate the strong educational focus including the annual congress, courses, masterclasses and webinars. ESGO has done pioneering work in an effort to homogenize training in Gynaecologic Oncology in Europe and set new standards in guideline development jointly with its partnering organizations ESMO and ESTRO. ENYGO is a very active subgroup and I would love to participate in ENYGO's efforts to bring together Europe's young GynaeOncologists.

I have served as the Continuing Medical Education Task Force Chair at the International Society for Ultrasound in Obstetrics and Gynecology for 4 years and would be very excited to be part of ENYGO's and ESGO's educational programs. During my period as TF chair, we have achieved the accreditation by EACCME and provided 150+ CME activities to members. I would very much enjoy collaborating with other ENYGO members from all around Europe to foster education and networking for young GynaeOncologists.
